

Are You or Someone Your Child Loves Military Connected?

Does your child
have trouble
sleeping?

Has your child
been unusually clingy?

Let Us Know... We Can Help

We recognize that military children face unique circumstances &
experiences

Has your child
been unusually shy
or withdrawn?

Is your family in transition due to a deployment or reintegration?

Is your child
having difficulties
in school?

The Center for Promoting Recovery and Resilience of Traumatized Children and Youth, in partnership with the University of Louisville's Kent School of Social Work and Seven Counties, Inc, is working to strengthen and expand access to and availability of effective and culturally competent evidence-based treatment for children aged 0-18. The CPRR has placed an emphasis on supporting military families through the unique circumstances and life events that they encounter as a result of their service.

To make an appointment, contact Seven Counties Services, Inc. at 502-589-1100

For further information about how your child can be served by the CPRR Contact:

Jennifer Bobo, Project Director
jennifer.bobo@louisville.edu
502-852-8735

In conjunction with University of Louisville's Kent School of Social Work and Seven Counties Services, Inc., the CPRR is funded by a four-year research grant from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA)-Grant #1U79SM061100

